Freelance Projects:

For Local and International Clients

Over the course of the past six years, since February 2018, I have actively contributed to over 2,500 diverse projects. These endeavors encompass a broad spectrum, ranging from academic initiatives like syllabus designing and providing support in dissertation and thesis writing to engaging in academic blogging. Additionally, my involvement extends to various business-oriented projects, where I have undertaken tasks such as crafting reports, developing proposals, and conducting marketing research, among others.
